Texas—O. G. Carrell, 2807 Rio Grande St., Austin.

Utah—Miss E. De Long, 2366 Jackson Ave., Ogden.
Virginia—Mrs. Wm. C. Ritter, Newport News.

West Virginia—J. Ernest Applegate, Welch.
Washington—A. W. Wright, 1728 East 62d Street, Seattle.

Wisconsin—H. B. Plunkett, 782 Case Ave., Milwaukee.

These appointments have been made irrespective of membership in the N. A. D., under whose auspices this movement, which promises to become more thoroughly national in its scope than any other enterprise ever undertaken by the America deaf, has been launched. All these persons are possessed of most commendable public spirit in thus assuming the duties connected with the position of state treasurer. There must be much sacrifice of time, much thought planning, much work in the way of correspondence, and the exercise of consummate tact in arousing enthusiasm and securing the largest returns.

It will be observed that Alabama and Mississippi have no state treasurers. Efforts were made, without success, to enlist various persons. Should anyone volunteer to take charge of the work in either of these states, he will please communicate with Mr. Regensburg.

Mr. Regensburg will shortly issue a detailed statement, to which attention is herewith called in advance.

Mr. Wm. Howe Phelps, State Treasurer of Missouri, is offering a gold watch as a prize to the Missourian who returns the largest total to the Fund. In this instance Missouri has reversed her ancient motto, and instead of being shown, intends to show us. In emulation of Mr. Phelps' example I herewith offer three prizes in connection with the Fund as follows:

A pen—four hens and cockerel—to the finest White Leghorns to National Treasurer Regensburg, who has always been able to tell a hawk from a handsaw, and has by this time learned to differentiate between a pullet and a rooster, on condition that the total Fund equals or exceeds ten thousand dollars. I am confident Mr. Regensburg will win this prize.

A trio—two hens and a cockerel—to the State Treasurer returning the largest pro rata total to the Fund, the basis of pro rata to be the number of pupils in the school or schools of each state, as given in the tabular statement in the Annals for January, 1910.

A trio, to the collector in Colorado who hands in the largest amount to the State Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Winemiller.

These fowls will all be shipped to the winners express prepaid by myself.

Mrs. Winemiller also authorizes me to announce that to the Colorado Collector securing the second largest total, she will give as a prize a trio of the beautiful Buff Leghorns of which Mr. Winemiller makes a specialty.

No definite time limit has been set for the completion of the Fund. The work will extend well into the term of my successor and may cover his entire administration. This does not mean, however, that the Committee may not proceed as soon as sufficient funds are on hand to have films made of addresses by Dr. Gallaudet and others. My private information is to the effect that nearly one thousand dollars has already been secured.

Respectfully
GEORGE WM. VEDITZ
President N. A. D.
COLORADO SPRINGS, MAR 17, 1910.

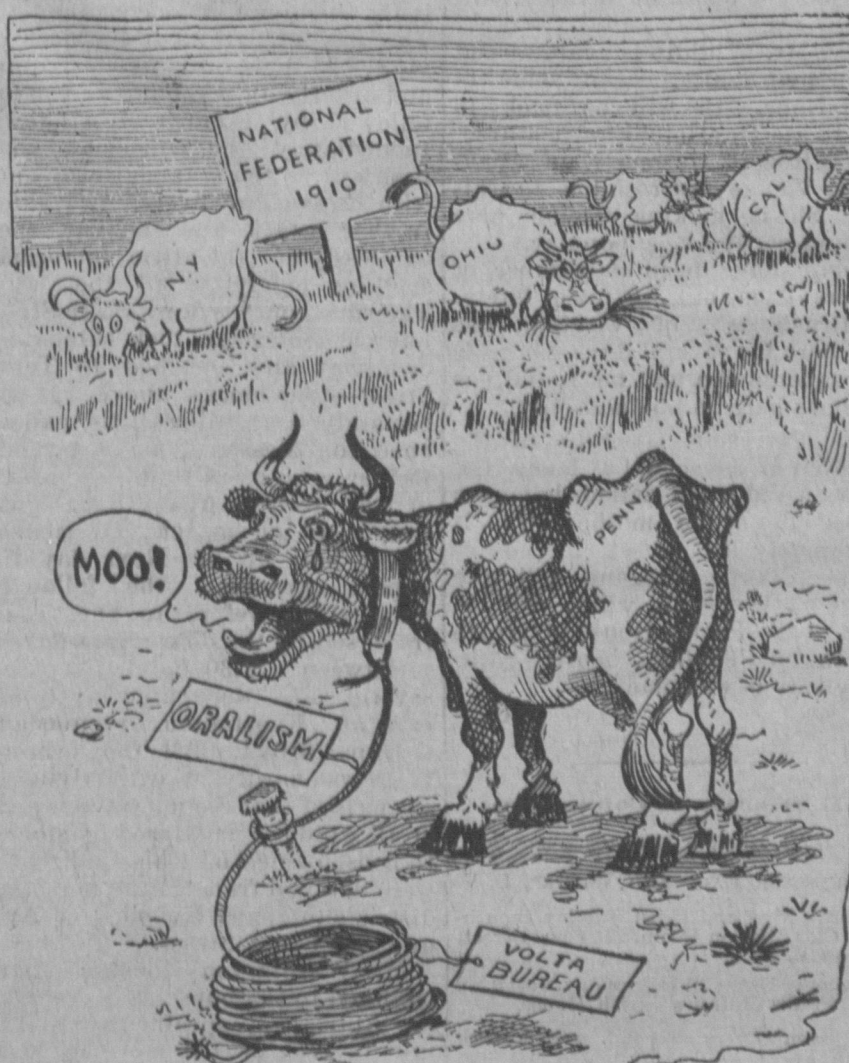

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Kimball, of Meridale, N. Y., are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gage, and Miss Julia E. Ciesielski, of Oneonta. Mrs. and Mrs. Kimball are graduates of the deaf-mute school, of Rome, N. Y.

GIVE THAT COW MORE ROPE.

"Should a hostile policy be directed toward the oral method in this State by the National Federation, it would result in the loss to the society of some of the most valued members."—Reider.

"There is no real necessity for a National Federation. It will burst just as a soap bubble does."—Sawyer.

"Pennsylvania is noted for its loyal sons. This is the age of expansion, and we, the Pennsylvanians, should not be isolated. As Pennsylvania was the Keystone in the arch of the thirteen original States, so it should be the fastening stone in the arch of the Federation. WASHINGTON, D. C.

The local papers of March 10th contained accounts of the wedding, in Alexandria, Va., of Raymond Graham Roberts and Miss Cornelia A. Beasley, both of Washington. Accompanied by several of their friends the young couple went from Washington to Alexandria in a touring car, and were married by the Rev. William J. Morton of Christ Episcopal Church, the historic church to which George Washington belonged.

Mr. Roberts is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts. He is employed in the advertising department of a Washington daily paper at a good salary, with excellent prospects of promotion. The marriage was in no way a runaway affair as there was no opposition on the part of the parents of either.

Mrs. John A. Boland recently had Mr. Boland's body disinterred and shipped to Pittsburgh for interment in the family burial lot in that city.

Mr. Edward L. Chapin, of Romney, W. Va., attended services at St. Barnabas Chapel, Easter Day, giving his friends a pleasant surprise. He came to Washington to attend the funeral of a relative.

Mr. R. Barclay Adams also attended the service at St. Barnabas. Mr. Adams has an engraving establishment of his own, and does a good business. He has a hearing wife and two fine girls.

Mr. H. L. Stafford, like many other folks, was greatly interested in the efforts of the "insurgents" in Congress to down Speaker Cannon, and went to the Capital, where he engaged a reserved seat to view the fight. This was Saturday, March 19th, the day on which the decisive vote was taken, and the crowd in the galleries was so great that Mr. Stafford could not get out and had to stay in his seat nearly all day.

Maud, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Edington, visited the College students at historic "Camp Gallaudet" Friday last, and also went to view the falls. In some way she slipped and fell into the river, and it was only due to a Kendall School boy, Rockwell by name, that she was not drowned. Miss Edington had gone down for the third time when Rockwell, who had jumped in after her, reached her and swam with her to the shore, where she was soon resuscitated and none the worse for her involuntary bath. Rockwell deserves great credit for the rescue as the currents are very dangerous in that place.

Mrs. E. J. Welty has moved to an apartment on 11th Street, southeast, so as to be nearer the department store in which her daughter Edna is employed.

Mr. Elmer E. Bernsdorff gave a social on Friday, March 25th, at which about twenty-five persons were present. Not being one of the twenty-five, we cannot give a detailed account of the affair, but it is understood that everyone had a "bully" time.

Mrs. M. O. Roberts has been under the weather for some weeks, but is now nearly recovered.

Henry, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Flood, was taken to the Children's Hospital recently and had his tonsils removed.

Easter was celebrated in the usual way in Washington. The weather was delightful, as if nature were in accord with the spirit of the occasion. At St. Barnabas' Episcopal Mission, Rev. Oliver J. Whildin, the General Missionary in the Southern Dioceses, preached an interesting and instructive sermon, taking for his text Job 14:14—"If a man die, shall he live again?" He also administered Holy Communion. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers and the attendance was quite large.

The offerings at the service, together with the Lenten offerings of the members of the Mission, are to be sent to the General Board of Missions, New York City. These offerings will come up to the average, and perhaps exceed the average of last year.

PITTSBURG.

Mrs. Col. Sawhill and her daughter, Miss Mabel, and M. Bracken, spent Easter Day at Connellsville, Pa., at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Stout.

Mr. Purath, of Reading Pa., was seen in company with Eddie McDonald in this city last week. We guess that he got scared and left for home, disgusted with the smoke air had to breathe. Many of his friends felt sorry that they did not have a chance to meet Mr. Purath.

Mr. B. R. Allabough, Treasurer of the Pennsylvania Society for the Advancement of the Deaf, reports the following contributions in response to the Fifth Easter Appeal for the benefit of the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf at Doylestown:

Manager John L. Friend took his nine over to Allegheny and had a very good opening game with the Allegheny Base Ball Club, which resulted in a score of 13 to 12 against the deaf-mutes. Frank McDonough pitched a winning game for his side, but hard luck on the part of some players muffled the high flies, enabled the other nine to win this game. With more practice and team work, the deaf-mutes will play good ball all through the season.

Mr. B. R. Allabough was called to Cleveland, O., last Friday, to be with his little boy, Dave, who is critically ill at this time. We hope that Dave will pull through all right.

Mrs. Orlando Clarke, of Mystic, Conn., was in Pittsburgh last week to see her sick relative at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Brown, of Boston, Mass., are now visiting at Mr. and Mrs. George Hansen in East End. Mrs. Brown is a sister of Mr. Hansen. Mr. Brown feels like living in the Smoky City if he can secure some kind of employment.

Twenty years of wedded life! George Grimm arranged a selected party, who met to celebrate the "China Wedding" at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Sawhill at Swissvale. Both received a good number of beautiful dishes and cups from their friends. Mr. Sawhill made some remarks how he won the heart of his wife at Columbus, O., and Mrs. Sawhill explained about her first effort to cook supper, which resulted in the nickname of "Bad 'Em." Abundance of advice was spoken by some married people to the Bachelors who were present at the party. Refreshments were served among them. The evening was spent in a very good and successful manner.

Livingston McManima, of New Brighton, Pa., will give an exhibition at Trinity Parish House on April 16th, Saturday afternoon, at eight o'clock, for the benefit of St. Margaret's Mission for the Deaf. The great mystery manipulator will show us how he escape from the hand-cuff, Harness, Leg-Iron, Straight Jacket, and Mail-Bag, etc. The most feature will be a "Hindoo Trunk Mystery." Everybody should try and come to this exhibition to show his appreciation to encourage the deaf-mute, Livingston.

Reply to Mrs. Nelson.

In the Silent Success of March 24th, Rev. J. H. Cloud, its editor, has the subjoined in reply to the open letter of Mrs. G. E. M. Nelson in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, the purport of which was that ministers of the Gospel should consecrate all their time and energies to saving souls, and entertain no aspirations for official honors in the National Association:

The communication is from a lady, a member of the Episcopal Church and a member of the N. A. D. There are opinions and opinions. Here is one also from a lady, a member of the Episcopal Church, a member of the N. A. D. and the wife of a high official in that and other national organization—Mrs. E. F. Long, of Council Bluffs—who has the following to say in the Silent Worker for March: "Mr. J. C. Howard, of Duluth, Minn., mentions Rev. J. H. Cloud as being the right man for secretary of the N. A. D., and everybody who knows what is what will agree that Mr. Howard is correct."

"The Rev. Mr. Cloud is one of the best and most entertaining correspondents of the Silent Worker and the vigorous writer of editorials in the Silent Success, and has many times over proven his fitness for the office, so all who know him will doubtless second the nomination by Mr. Howard. Besides, the Rev. Mr. Cloud has always shown himself to be an earnest and indefatigable working member of the N. A. D., and I think there could be no better man put for the secretaryship of the N. A. D. at this time."

The minister nominated by Mr. Howard for secretary has held that office before—having been unanimously elected thereto by the largest gathering of the deaf world has ever seen. As far as the deaf clergy are concerned, his case is somewhat exceptional. He is engaged in secular work and supports himself and family by his earnings from secular sources. As the principal of the leading day school for the deaf in the country for twenty years, in a city of nearly a million population, he has had to do with affairs—civic, social and other—which usually do not fall to the lot of a teacher within the confined routine of institution life.

He wears no man's collar. Being thus engaged in secular work, as are about 99 per cent of the other members of the N. A. D., it is not at all surprising that he should be interested in secular affairs.

No man, whatever be his calling, has a better right or clearer duty for taking an active interest in affairs as a man of affairs among men of affairs than a minister. The interest which the clergy take in the welfare of their fellowmen and their willingness and desire to serve them to the best of their ability are the underlying motives which lead them to participate in secular affairs and to sink the clergyman into the man as they pass outside the sanctuary. The acceptance of secular positions of honor and trust by the clergy is their answer to the demand for their services, and it does not at all imply that they of all others, because of their calling, are the better qualified for the positions. As long as a man's bread-winning occupation is honorable, so long should he not be discriminated against because of it. The best way to keep the clergy in their pulpits is to provide them with a support sufficient to relieve them of the necessity of getting it outside of the pulpit by secular work. We doubt, however, if it would work in the present case.

A FRIEND residing within sight of the Gulf of Mexico, and therefore not in a position to either verify or refute the story, sends the an excerpt from a newspaper, with the inquiry as to whether the branding of deaf children is really practised at Fanwood. Here is the clipping he sends:—

"A novel means of identification has been adopted by one of the large institutions for deaf-mute children of New York, says the April Popular Mechanic in an illustrated article. The children sometimes wander away or become lost while traveling, and as many of them cannot read and write, it is often a difficult thing to return them to the institution. By tattooing the name and address on the skin it is an easy matter for the deaf-mute to be identified. The tattooing is done in ink that is not indelible, but which will stand for a year or two."

The public is so often misled by fake stories, that correction of even a part of them has little effect. An impression once formed is hard to eradicate, and it is futile to attempt to chase newspaper lies in their intricate and extended wanderings. Nevertheless, it is a very serious matter this branding or tattooing of little deaf children, and we hasten to assure our correspondent that it has never been known, thought of, or practised at Fanwood. We do not believe any other school for the deaf in New York State has ever resorted to such a repugnant system as the clipping above printed outlines. It would not only be cruel and harsh to do such a thing, but it would also be criminal, and the person adopting it would doubtless be permanently and prominently marked for identification by the fists of the outraged parents, if not by the indignant adult deaf themselves.

THE machinery for the accumulation of coin for the Moving Picture Fund of the National Association of the Deaf has been organized, and the various parts will be found assembled on the first page of the JOURNAL. Get a move on and help it grow. Incidentally you may win one or more of George W. Veditz's prize pullets.

THE appointment of Dr. Thomas F. Fox and Dr. John B. Hotchkiss to represent the National Association of the Deaf at the meeting of the American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otological Association, in Washington, D. C., which President Veditz announces in this issue, is a move in the right direction.

Least the character of this polysyllabic organization may not be clear to the layman, we will state that it is a coterie of medical scientists who specialize on the throat, nose and ears of humanity.

It does not make a specialty of studying the deaf and dumb, but is likely to side-swipe them in its deliberations; therefore the wisdom of having qualified men at hand to prevent the damage that might possibly be inflicted upon our class either through intention or misunderstanding. When the deaf go before the public through the medium of newspaper reports, it is well for all that their true status be understood and that they appear in their true colors, and a timely correction of any misstatement during the proceedings may accomplish this much-desired result.

To the Members of the O. W. L. S.

Some time ago, it was suggested by Mrs. O. Crawford Blankenship, ex-'03, that the O. W. L. S. have a national meeting during the N. A. D. Convention at Colorado Springs, next Summer.

The O. W. L. S. have for some time been talking of ways and means to add to the Edward Miner Gallaudet Fund. This would be a good opportunity to decide upon something in regard to this question, also the renewing of old friendships among the Wise Birds, would not come amiss.

Therefore, I move that we change Mrs. Blankenship's motion that the O. W. L. S. hold a meeting during the N. A. D. convention week in Colorado, next summer, at such time as may be convenient to all members, with Miss Cloa Lamson, '00, as chairman.

Fraternally yours,
FRIEDA BAUMAN CARPENTER, '02.

I second Mrs. Carpenter's motion as it stands.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE DEAF.

The American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otological Association, will hold its annual meeting at Washington, April 28th to 30th.

The deaf and their education have received a prominent place on the program, Dr. Gallaudet, Dr. Crouter and others being on the list of speakers. The deaf, themselves, have no representation, and believing that it will be of importance to our cause to have able and representative men from our ranks in attendance at this convention, I herewith appoint Dr. Thomas Francis Fox, of New York, and Dr. John Burton Hotchkiss, of Washington, delegates to represent the National Association of the Deaf.

President.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Mar. 30.

KILLED ON RAILROAD TRACK

While walking on the tracks of the Consolidated road between Market and Wood street crossings at Warren at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, William Dunbar Postlethwaite, a deaf and dumb man, who lived in this city, was instantly killed. He did not see the train approaching and made no attempt to get out of the way.

Postlethwaite was well known in Warren and had been in the habit of visiting there about once a week, over Sunday. He was 31 years old and single. Identification was made by several persons who knew him, and by a photograph in his pocket. A note was also found, saying he was deaf and dumb.

The man, a machinist, said to be employed by the Crompton and Knowless works. The Consolidated train crew pulled the body from under the second car. The train was going from this city to Fall River. Dr. Morrisseau was called, but the man was dead. Medical Examiner Seymour declared death accidental and turn the body over to Undertaker Unboure. The latter notified an uncle, Samuel R. Simmons, Jr., of New York, and also Mrs. James B. Simmons, of East Warren.—Providence, R. I., Journal April 4.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE.

The latest camping trip, will go down in history as one of the most pleasant ever spent at Great Falls. The weather was ideal, with not even threatening clouds to mar the pleasure of the occasion; with balmy air and the sun giving just the right degree of warmth necessary to perfect comfort. Though early in the year, the boys did not hesitate to try the swimming pool in the middle of the rocks, and daily cold plunges had much to do with the clear eyes and ruddy cheeks brought home by them. Tents were more of a luxury than anything else, as sleeping out in the open was not only possible but very desirable.

As usual Friday was the momentous occasion of the College girls' visit. They arrived about ten o'clock, under the care of Dr. Draper, and the rest of the day was one of unconfined joy for everyone. After such a dinner as can only be obtained at Camp Gallaudet, the time-honored rocks were explored, until the low-hanging sun sent all back to camp for supper and to prepare for the girls' return.

The boys came in Monday morning, bearded and tough, but the healthiest looking lot you could find in an extended period of time. Should there be another camping trip tomorrow, there is small doubt but that every one would just as enthusiastically bundle up his things and hike for the woods as he did last Wednesday. We repeat, it was a great trip.

CAMP NOTES.

Undoubtedly Gardner got more pleasure out of camp than any two ordinary youths, since the pastry cook in his party gives ten pies as a conservative estimate of the Westerner's enthusiasm in this line of endeavor and attainment. Hal was also there with a most contagious, happy look, all day Friday.

We weep for Cadwell. Poor little man, his camping days with the old crowd are over, since he tucks his degree into his breast pocket this June. Please understand that Caddy is never so happy as when he has free access to an abundance of supplies and a gasoline stove. Give the lad a ham bone, a sack of flour, a lemon and a rolling-pin, and see the pies he can produce. Pies like mother made? Nix; mother would die of envy to see Caddy's pies. We are unable to state what would take her away should she eat one; probably some ailment akin to delirium tremens. But, anyway, Caddy is there with the goods when it comes to cooking for the bunch, and Camp Gallaudet will never seem the same without the old boy.

Toomey, Bieri, Holliday, and Isackson have also said their farewells to the dear old camp. Toomey's chief qualification for favorable mention is his passionate fondness for dishwater and a swab. Thus armed and he will hold the blues indefinitely at bay, and will keep the tinsil box looking like a queen's jewel case. Bieri is all to the good. He is a short, stubby little chap with little round arms, little round legs, little round eyes, a little round mouth—in short, a good little all-round man, fitting into any sort of aperture, round or square. We hesitate to mention Holliday's qualification. The best we can do is to say that he likes to look heavily burdened with cares and responsibility, and must have his sleep regularly. Like Petronius, who drank a toast to the gods from a priceless goblet, then broke the goblet to prevent anyone coming after him from doing same, our Holliday set fire to his tent in some way just before coming home, and almost succeeded in his intention. Isackson was leader this year, rigged himself up an office the first thing after arriving at the Falls, hung out his badge of distinction, and ordered things around like a field marshal. All the campers' perplexities seemed to dissolve when Ike hove into view, and altogether he was the right man in place. We went over once to see Ike eat. He had three fellows cooking for him, while a fourth washed dishes like all possessed. Somehow, it was all done without any effort on Ike's part.

Every time we looked in the direction of Robinson's modest dwelling the little fellow was fussing with a curious contrivance called a meat chopper. That thing was the pride of Iva's heart and soul throughout the stay in the woods. One of the fellows captured an eel in the forest some place, and led it home with a bit of string. While everyone else petted and admired the soft fur on the eel, Iva hustled about and set up his machine, remarking that the "blooming animal would just fit the hopper." After this display of a thirst for blood, we kept away from that spot.

"Uncle Shelby" Harris is a firm believer in the doctrine of doing as the Romans do. The lot he drew placed him at steady employment in the cook tent. The lad hustled in to his nattiest little lavender pants and fancy hose, evolved a large white paper cap, and fell to making potato salad. He would probably be making potato salad at the present writing had not his companions in misfortune dragged him forcibly home.

Forse spent his entire vacation on the road to camp. Poor Bert, 'twas too sad for mention with levity. You see, Bertrom is the proud possessor of an undersized specimen of the genus auto, and had planned to take his party to the Falls in the same. They loaded the outfit Wednesday afternoon, and got a fine start from the Green. The auto broke down just below Cabin John, and the party spent the night at the roadside. Next morning the party went on in a farmer boy's cart, while Bert went back to the city for assistance. He got the machine back to town, and next morning made another start. Again he broke down. So he passed the vacation, starting for camp every morning, getting back to town at night. Forse says he will spend his next vacation at the New Willard, in the midst of ease and luxury.

Third term—last lap. Frederick Schoeneman, '08, who, for the past two years, has been Boys' Supervisor at the Kendall School, resigned his position several weeks ago and left for his home in Illinois. He planned to prolong the trip for a few weeks by visiting with friends and relatives at various points along the way.

Harvey Flanagan, K. S., left for his home in Minneapolis the past week.

Last Friday evening, Dr. and Miss Gallaudet received the Sophomore class at their home from eight o'clock until ten. The time was most agreeably passed at games, and in conversation. Besides the Sophomores, those present were Dr. and Mrs. Fay, Miss Montgomery, Misses Fay and Marbutt.

The Literary Society met Saturday and elected the following officers for the term: President, Mr. Toomey, '10; Vice-President, Mr. Grace, '11; Secretary, Mr. Robinson, '11; Treasurer, Mr. Blanchard, '12; Librarian, Mr. Hughes, '13. A recent amendment in the Constitution gives the President power to appoint some member of the Society or Faculty to act as Critic at each meeting. This innovation should be productive of much good, as with a new Critic for each meeting variety in the reports is assured, while with a member of the Faculty officiating many good and helpful suggestions should be forthcoming, all of which will tend to make the Society of more value to the student body.

The officials of the Boys' Reading Room Club were also chosen Saturday. They are: Chairman, Cadwell, '10; Secretary, Anderson, '12; Treasurer, West, '12; Librarian, Mosely, '11; Representatives, Niles, '11, and Bieri, '10.

In place of the regular Sunday Scho. of Concert next week, a memorial service for the late Mr. Denison will be held in the College chapel.

Sometime ago, quite a long time ago, and we most earnestly beg pardon for the oversight, through the kindness of Mr. Alex Paeh, of New York, a party of Co-eds, chaperoned by Miss Jameson, occupied a box at Mr. Shea's Washington production of "The Bells."

"In the spring when young man's fancy lightly turns to devilment." (Apologies to Tennyson.) This ray in a measure explain why some of the fellows lured a pair of Sicilian-Irish organ grinders onto the grounds, and started them to making joyous music beneath the office windows, only to hasten to the third floor and bring the sweet strains to an abrupt ending with a pail of water.

(From the Gallaudet Primer.) There, my child, do not be afraid. The Mob in the Hallway will not harm you. The boys are Hungry. They want to go into the Dining Room. Why do they not go into the Dining Room? Ah, the Door is Locked. Why do they tear each other's Hair and Clothing so? O, each wants to be First. Hear the Pretty Bell! A Small Boy rings the Bell. Why does he look so Happy? Hush, he thinks he has a Free Seat at a Foot Ball Game. See the Flying Wedge! The Door is open! Come away, my child, you must not look inside. It is no Place for Childish Innocence.

Saturday afternoon at College Park the Gallaudet baseball team lost the first scheduled game of the season to the Maryland Aggies, by the score of 7 to 2.

Gallaudet made the usual bad start, and this cost them the game, although inability to get a single hit off Wright, the Aggies twirler, was a great factor in the defeat. Through a combination of three hits, a base on balls, a hit batter and errors of the visitors, the Aggies got six runs across in the first two innings, thus stowing the game away.

Records of both teams fairly bristle with errors, but M. A. C. was fortunate in having their misplays occur when they were of little moment, while most of Gallaudet's were costly. Gallaudet's two runs came in the seventh and eighth, when first Maxson, then later Rockwell, got around on errors.

Battiste pitched a good game for Gallaudet, and deserved better support. He struck out seven men, and gave but one base on balls; while his opponent, Wright, with credit for a no-hit game, only struck out three men and gave a like number of passes.

Morris played at short for the first time, and although making two misplays, gave promise of developing into a speedy man at that position, showing exceptional ability in covering territory and throwing to first. Capt. Hower played well at third, but his old-time luck at the bat was not with him.

Dr. Draper chaperoned the Co-eds over, but expressed himself as disappointed, because the ball grounds have been changed to a place under the hill, from whence practically no view can be obtained. We are sure that the young ladies enjoyed the trip, and that the loss of a landscape was more than compensated for by the proximity of knights errant perfectly willing, nay anxious, to explain the fine points of the game.

BALTIMORE.

On Easter Sunday, the service at Grace Church was well attended. Rev. Mr. Whildin preached a splendid sermon. Toward the close of the service Miss Kilore and Rogers and Mrs. Reamy rendered a hymn in a very impressive manner. Again Miss Rogers signed another hymn. The service was followed by a missionary rally. The offering was the largest one that was ever known. The programme for Easter was much appreciated.

The Friday night services were also well attended and showed much improvement over last year. The addresses were given by Mr. Cooper, Mr. Merrill, of Washington, D. C., and Rev. Mr. Whildin and enjoyed by those present at the church.

The children of Mr. J. B. Smith, who are attending school, spent Easter Sunday with him. It was a happy family reunion.

Mr. Fred Schoeneman, ex-supervisor of the boys at Kendall School, Washington, D. C., stopped in Baltimore for one day on his way home to Illinois. It is understood by this time he is at home, where he intends to run a farm of his own. He has been thinking of raising pigs so as to help us buy pork at cheaper prices.

Many parties have been held lately. So far the writer has not attended them, therefore is unable to give the details of each party.

On Friday night, April 1st, the Men's Club gave a social. Some different kinds of games were played, in which so many young ladies easily got fooled that they went home with the determination that they will get even with the members of the club next year. Too late, or never too late, which? With the intention of playing a trick on the girls, they were asked to hunt up three hidden raw eggs. After fifteen minutes' search, Miss Bendele, one of the matrons at the Parkville School, at last found two boiled eggs and one chocolate egg. Mr. Schafer was so greatly embarrassed that he insisted that eggs were not the ones he expected to find, but soon he smilingly said that the eggs really belonged to the sexton of the church, who laid them somewhere for his dinner, and he then was satisfied when the girls came to the conclusion that the eggs were not raw. It is not yet known whether Miss Bendele has taken two boiled eggs home to give Mr. Forrester, the principal, for hatching the young chicks.

Dr. J. B. Hotchkiss, of Gallaudet College, is booked to give a lecture at Grace Church on Friday night, April 8th. Refreshments will be served after the close of his lecture. Mr. H. J. Reamy has secured a lucrative position as job printer and linotype operator in the Baltimore News.

Rev. Mr. Whildin is again absent in the near South visiting some of his stations. He will be back in time to see Dr. Hotchkiss' lecture. Miss Rogers, formerly of Richmond, Va., is now residing in this city. She is making friends here fast and getting very popular.

There have been a number of visitors from out of town lately. Mr. Brushwood, of Virginia, has been here for several days, but his whereabouts cannot be found, as he comes here on business only.

Mrs. Forrester, the wife of the principal of the school at Parkville, has been suddenly called home to the bedside of her mother, who is dangerously ill.

Miss Alberta Wiegand will take charge of the social, which will be given at the Parish House of Grace Church on Friday, April 15th. Everybody is welcome.

PHILADELPHIA.

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Here is a sample of the many queer things that happened in this city during the time of the trolley-men's strike.

"Released in $800 bail on the charges of assault and battery and inciting to riot, George A. Jones, a deaf-mute, employed at No. 865 Columbia Avenue, is seeking witnesses to testify for him when his case is called in court.

"Through his lawyer he has explained that he boarded a Fourth and Pine Streets car at Germantown and Hunting Park Avenues, the evening of March 15th. He paid his fare, but being a mute was unable to explain that he wanted a transfers. It is said that when he endeavored to make signs to show what he wanted, the conductor attacked him and later had him arrested on charges of assault and battery, the charge of inciting to riot being added. Efforts to locate the conductor, Harry Mannigan, have failed.

No good citizen will object to the efforts of the police to uphold the majesty of the law; but some in their blind zeal to do their duty, or maybe owing to their want of horse-sense, have been making serious mistakes, mostly the new men who are nicknamed "Brownies." If Philadelphia was a city of Russia, there would be nothing surprising about such a condition, but Philadelphia is as far away from Russia as the "hoss cars" of New York—See!

On Sunday, April 3d, a gentleman of Rochester, N. Y., arrived in town to surprise a lady friend and hear hersing. He boarded a trolley car at Sixteenth and Market Streets and when the car reached Guard Avenue, lo! and behold! a full-sized brick crashed through a window and struck the visitor squarely on the chin. Fortunately, St. Joseph's Hospital is at the corner of 16A and Guard Ave., and the man received immediate medical care. He, however, cancelled his plans here, and left for home the same day, vowing never to come to Philadelphia again. He has our sincere regrets.

A teacher of the Mt. Airy School recently had to pay the highest fare for a trolley ride that has been recorded, perhaps. She handed the conductor (a strike breaker) a two dollar bill. The fare-collector simply pocketed the greenback and said nothing.

Naturally the lady, asked for her change, but she was ignored. When she attempted to remonstrate, a policeman, who was guarding the car approached her and advised her to make no further demonstration. With the conductor and the guardian of the law against her there was no other course to follow but to obey.

On Friday evening (April 2d) Mr. R. E. Underwood and the JOURNAL correspondent decided to make a call on Washington Houston, who was severely injured by being struck by a trolley car about two weeks ago. Spurning one line, they took the one which seemed most safe for a night trip. They reached their destination all right, but the return home was far from a "joy ride." Shortly after they had boarded a car, three policemen came on. The sight of such a group reminded the deaf riders that they would soon be riding through the hot-bed of the strike troubles, and they decided to keep wide awake. As the car was speeding along Kensington Avenue, both sides of the street were lined for two squares with people, all seemingly looking in one direction. The passing car was the object of view, but the crowds seemed quiet and orderly until there was a bang followed by a crash of windows. Immediately the policemen took positions on the rear platform and, with drawn revolvers, prevented further attack and the car sped carelessly on, the green motorman smoking cigarettes all the way. The car's route is down Sixth Street but the motorman took things his own way and switched to Tenth Street—four blocks above. It was certainly a thrilling little experience for Messrs. Underwood and Reider, who were totally unaware of any trouble that night until caught in an attack; but neither lost a hair by it. Next day the papers contained the following note which refers to the route traversed by the deaf riders.

Between 9:30 and 11 P.M. several shots were fired at trolley cars at Kensington Avenue and Orleans Street. All the evening there was hardly a car arriving in Frankford that did not have several or all windows shattered by stones. In consequence of this policemen were detailed from all the northeast districts to guard Kensington Avenue and Front Street.

Mr. Washington Houston is still confined to the house as a result of his injuries. A sprained ankle may take a week or two more to heal, but otherwise he is doing well. He receives visits from his deaf friends, and others would doubtlessly call also were the trip not risky. Mr.

Houston is pleased and thankful for the many expressions of sympathy by his friends.

The Joyous festival of Easter again made All Souls' Church for the Deaf, the Mecca of deaf people from far and near on Sunday, the 27th of March. The trolley strike, however, may have accounted for the absence of several familiar faces. The chancel of the Church, as is usual on Easter Day, was tastefully decorated with appropriate flowers and plants, the work of members of the Pastoral Aid Society.

Pastor Dantzer preached an inspiring and instructive sermon on the meaning of the Resurrection, and the choir, under the leadership of Miss Jeanette King, signed the Easter hymn beautifully from memory. Holy Communion was administered to a large number, and the total offerings on this day reached over one hundred dollars, with some envelopes still out to be returned at the next service. Among the visitors from a distance were Mr. Clarence A. Boxley, of Troy, N. Y., and Mr. Frederick W. Schoeneman, of Illinois, who came here from Washington, D. C., and many others from nearby places.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ziegler left on Saturday afternoon, 2d of April, for Brooklyn, N. Y., to visit the latter's cousin over Easter. They returned the following Tuesday morning. They wished to take in the service at St. Ann's, but did not get the opportunity, and they also missed seeing the wonderful "hoss-cars."

The stork called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Endless Morris and deposited a girl on Good Friday. All doing well. Congratulations.

Rev. Mr. Dantzer will probably announce some very good news at the service next Sunday and we shall report it next week.

Time will not allow us to write more items now, so we reserve what are left for the next letter.

Death of Mr. J. M. Jernigan.

Within the brief space of four weeks the State School for the Deaf has suffered the loss of two members of its official family by death.

On Saturday at midnight, March 19th, 1910, Mr. J. H. Jernigan died very suddenly at his home in St. Ferdinand Street, heart failure being the immediate cause. But for some time previous to his demise Mr. Jernigan had not been in very good health. However, on the 19th, he never looked so well as he did for so long a time. Hence, his death was a shock to us all.

Mr. Jernigan was born at Fort Gains, Georgia, July 4th, 1838, and was therefore in his 72d year. He attended the Georgia School for the Deaf at Cave Spring, leaving when the Civil War broke out. He enlisted as a regular soldier under Capt. John Avirett at Goldsboro, N. C. He served mostly in Company 1, 68th Alabama Regiment of Infantry of Gen. Stewart's Division, one of Gen. Bragg's army. He served continuously until after the battle of Chickamauga when at his own request he was mustered out on account of prolonged ill health. He then followed the trade of shoemaking, and was foreman of the shoeshop of the Arkansas School during the superintendency of Henry C. Hammond. For several years he was foreman of the shoeshop of the Iowa School. In 1902 he became foreman of our shoeshop and one of the supervisors of boys, and literally remained "in harness" until his death.

Mr. Jernigan was twice married. Of the first union five children were born, of whom four are living, all grown up, well educated, and married. He was married the second time to Miss Maria C. Mims, on September 20th, 1905, at Prattville, Ala., and she survives him. Mr. Jernigan was a loving husband and was devoted to his own fireside.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, United Confederate Veterans, and the Order of Owls.

Fine floral tributes of red and white flowers—colors of the Confederacy—were sent by the Joanna Waddill Chapter and Henry Watkins Allen Chapter, U. D. C.

Mr. Jernigan was one of those fortunate veterans who have had the Cross of Honor conferred upon them by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

The remains, followed to the Y. & M. V. depot by Confederate veterans, representatives from the Order of Owls and the larger boys all marching in a body, were shipped to Prattville for burial.

To the bereaved widow, whom we had all grown to love, and his children The Pelican extends sincere sympathy in her loss.—The Pelican, Baton Rouge, La.

Mrs. H. Van Allen and Mrs. W. L. Butcher, of Utica, N. Y., both "trolleyed" to New Hartford, N. Y., last Sunday to see Mrs. Mattie Farley, who has been quite ill the past few weeks. Her many friends will be pleased to learn that they found her much improved.

NEW YORK.

News items for this column, should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.
A few words of information in a letter or on a postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

Heartly greetings were accorded Rev. Father McCarthy on the occasion of his Easter Sunday visit to Brooklyn Borough, some one hundred of his silent friends assembling in the main hall of the Knights of Columbus Institute, to greet him.

The afternoon was a sort of surprise party. No one was certain what the programme was to be. Father McCarthy was caught off his guard, and was the recipient of a little blue egg with two chicks painted on the sides, and full to the shell tops with a reminder his parishioners appreciated his interest in their behalf. For his part, before adjourning, he treated the assembly to a short stereopticon lecture on the careers and incidents of the great Hudson and Fulton, with comic views shown between times, all of which found favor.

President Fogarty presided, and was accorded genuine honours for his dignity of poise and the cleverness he displayed in a sort of magical thesis he sprung half way through the exercises. His property list summed up an Irish potato, an apple, an orange and a hard-boiled egg. Going through a comical dissertation on the ancestry of each, and tersely outlining their up-to-date family connections, the speaker had his audience in roars of laughter ere he finished. Some of Huyler's choicest bon mots were another reminder of President Fogarty's well wishes for the enjoyment of those about him.

As a matter of record, the De'Fecce Society's secretary, Miss Sadie Morris, read the last meeting's minutes, and reports of standing committees were also in order. Concluding this there were a few impromptu speeches, leading to Miss Cathor's placing a square box on the desk of the rostrum. In this was the surprise awaiting Father McCarthy, who expressed his thanks, and concluding again spoke of his hopes the Catholic deaf would eventually have a church edifice they could call their own.

As an added feature, a sextet of young school girls from Fordham, chartered by their tutor, Miss Susie Burns, rendered in graceful signs a suitable poetical selection, and were applauded for their efforts.

These promises to be lively and interesting doings at the Xavier Deaf-Mute Club's ladies' reception and stag entertainment, evening of April 14th, even though one of the committee is on the hospital list, and serious illness in the family of Chairman Kickers necessitates President Hugo Schmidt assuming charge as ex-officio for the time being. Danny Barker is in the hospital from the effects of a badly wrenched leg received while practising with his wrestling instructor. Baker is one of the club's promising young members, and the injury is of some concern. He is expected to be well and strong before the date of the stag, as he is listed to meet a clever deaf-mute exponent in mat work hailing from Newark, their wrestling bout being one of the features of the programme so far arranged. There will be a lively set-to between two prominent local boxers, who have promised to give and take in real Queensberry style, but, in consideration of the feelings of the fair spectators present, will refrain from delivering any deadly uppercuts or solar plexus knock-outs. That this number will be appreciated by the guests of the club goes without saying. The other numbers so far arranged for by the committee, will include some clever bar and ring work, with an "Uncle Josh" recitation by Ed. Hanley, whose fame as a mimic has rested too long under cover. Dancing will wind up the gymnastic exhibit, and as the gymnasium floor is well adapted to the purpose, the Terpsichorean devotees will shed tears of joy. A new face may be noted at the door in that of Jere. Rudolph, another young blood Xavierite, who is particularly chummy with Barker. They promise to bear watching. Rudolph comes from the Keystone State, where his father conducted a farm of considerable size, only recently disposing of same, and taking up his residence in this city. The committee wish to assure all expectant guests of a pleasant evening's entertainment.

Joe Schmidt, the club's baseball manager, is succeeding far beyond expectations. He has already booked some very acceptable dates with well known suburban teams, and hopes to have a nine that will do better than any former players wearing the Cherry X emblem. Should the management of the outings among the deaf this summer at Ulmer park desire to secure the Xavier ball players as an attraction with some other deaf-mute team, it would be well to consult Manager Schmidt before the season is too far advanced, as offers for dates are reaching him from all quarters.

Frederick Schoneman, Class of 1908, Gallaudet College, was in New York for several days last week. He went to Albany on the Hudson River steamboat, and then visited Niagara Falls, before going to his home in Manito, Ill.

Through the aid of Wm. S. Abrams, Louis Samuels was enabled to open a cobbler shop at 167th Street and Amsterdam Avenue. His improved prospects reunited him with his wife and baby, and all seemed as if prosperity was already at his door. But last week, during the night, burglars entered his shop and stole, in tools, machines and shoes, upward of $200. Mr. Abrams made good to some of the customers out of his own pocket, but it begins to look as if Samuels had struck a streak of hard luck.

The engagement of Raymond Kohl, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kohl (nee Clara Brady), to Miss Mary Ross, is announced. The event was celebrated with a party at the residence of the prospective bride's parents, Saturday evening. A beautiful diamond engagement ring from Mr. Kohl to Miss Ross signalized their formal engagement. Young Kohl is an electrical operator and has been steadily employed for five years.

The baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Thomas, of Yonkers, N. Y., was christened by Rev. Mr. Keiser at St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes, on Sunday afternoon, April 3d, and will hereafter be known as Murray Campbell Thomas. Mr. Murray Campbell stood as godfather and Anna C. Thadwald as godmother. The event was doubly significant as marking the third anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas.

Rev. Dr. Chamberlain will go to Pittsburgh on May 23th, to assist at the ordination of Mr. B. R. Allabough to the Diaconate. Afterwards he will journey to Wheeling, W. Va., to hold services at St. Margaret's Church for the Deaf. It is hoped that the baptismal font which the parishioners of St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes are presenting to their sister church in Wheeling, will reach its destination before Rev. Dr. Chamberlain arrives, so that he may formally make the presentation.

Mrs. Eschert wishes to gratefully acknowledge donations of ten dollars from the Brooklyn Division of the N. F. S. D.; five dollars from the Brooklyn Guild of Silent Workers; and five dollars from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Hebrew Congregation of the Deaf. Her husband is improving, but has to go to the hospital three times each week.

The Battalion of Fanwood Cadets, with their Band and Field Music, will give exhibitions at two Armories in two consecutive weeks, the first at the 12th Regiment Armory on Saturday evening, April 9th, and the second at the Armory of the 22nd Regiment on Friday evening, April 15th.

Charles Schmidt, a former pupil of the New York Institution, died two weeks ago, at Erie, Pa., aged forty-four years. The cause of death was Bright's Disease. He leaves a wife and three small children in straitened circumstances. De Witt Himrod is taking up subscriptions for the unfortunate family.

WEIL HIRSHKIND.—Mr. and Mrs. Max Hirschkind, of 149 South Third Avenue, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter Ruth to Ike Weil, of New York.

A little boy was left by the stork at the domicile of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Stern, on Saturday, April 2d. Mother and child doing well.

THE N. A. D.

EDITOR DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL:—Now is a good time to consider who will be the next officers of the National Association of the Deaf. Bear in mind that the N. A. D. is neither a political nor religious organization, but it is indeed and in fact, a three-fourthly business and one-fourthly social organization, and it was solely organized to promote the welfare of the whole American Deaf.

In my opinion, since the presidency and secretaryship are the most important of all, any person, who is hindered by the school or ministerial ties, should not be a candidate for either of the above mentioned offices.

For instance, Mr. Veditz, the retiring president, having been busy counting up the eggs and attending to the health of the fowls, has been able to do things without fear. I need not repeat what he has done during his two historical terms.

Practically nobody is not pleased to admit that Olof Hanson will be a worthy successor.

Under the proposed Spear plan [if adopted by the association], the secretary is to take charge of the headquarters and also is to edit the association paper. I hereby nominate Oscar H. Regensburg, formerly of Chicago and now of Los Angeles, Cal., for secretary.

Being well known in the deaf world, he was once the proprietor and the managing editor of the "National Exponent" which was forced to be discontinued for lack of patronage. And he can devote most of his time to the office.

April 2, '10.—Ohioans are hereby advised to paste this in their hats as a reminder and be on hand accordingly—viz., The next reunion of the Ohio Deaf-Mute Alumni Association will be held at the school September 2d, 3d, and 4th. This is the edict of the Executive Committee. Further particulars pertaining thereto will be announced later. You have the date, so prepare for the meeting.

The Columbus Advance Society held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening and transacted a lot of business. Reports of Committees of the late Social were received, and the Secretary was instructed to return the thanks of the Society to Superintendent Jones, Steward Campbell and others, for favors extended. The exact amount realized from the social is $69.14. The Superintendent of the Home, was authorized to go ahead with the Smaller Cottage Improvements. The expense will be about $30 and the Dayton Advance Society will share in it. When completed Mr. and Mrs. Turner will occupy it, thus affording additional accommodations. The president was authorized to appoint a committee of arrangements for the annual picnic of the Society at the Home, on May 30th. Mr. Elmer Elsey was elected to membership of the Society.

The Independent Athletic Association held the boards in the "Gym" Saturday evening, and gave an interesting exhibition to those who were fortunate to be present. The proceeds were for the benefit of the Association.

Following was the program:
1. Dumb Bell Drill
2. Spring Board
3. Games—Thread and Needle and Elephant Walk
4. Mat Work
5. Games—Wheelbarrow and Skin the Snake
6. Parallel Bars
7. Climbing Pole
8. Long Horse
9. Arch Ball Game
10. Wrestling

The players were: Nathan Herriek, Ben. Chaffee, Bert Tussing, Frank Bauer, George Goll, George Homrighausen, John Wondrack, Norbert Pilliod, Leo Gilboy, Chas. Fry, Ralph Harrington, Edward Hetzel, Israel Crossen, Jay Brown, Chas. Matthews, Harry Hahn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Showalter had their son, Benjamin, and his wife from Dayton with them from Friday to Sunday evening last, and were greatly delighted. Mr. Showalter is a teacher in the Dayton High School, having previously taught in the Iowa School for the Deaf a couple of years.

Mrs. A. B. Greener accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Gussie Sherman, to Newport, Ky., Monday, to remain awhile. She will be found at 641 Maple Avenue.

Miss Mary C. Bierce came up from Circleville, Saturday, and is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Pratt. She is slowly recovering her strength from the severe sickness she underwent last fall.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society, who gave an Easter supper, Saturday evening last, at the home of Mrs. George Clum, had a fair patronage, though they were prepared to entertain all who would have come, still they managed to swell their fund a little.

Mr. J. L. McCaffrey, who since August has been acting as clerk to Steward Campbell, resigned the position and left for his home in Brown County. He is succeeded by Miss Carmalette Campbell.

The mound which Superintendent Charles S. Perry had placed on the ball ground back of the catcher's place in 1881 or 1882, will soon be known no more. Thursday, Steward Campbell, who has charge of the grounds, had a force of workmen and teams erasing the hill and hauling the earth elsewhere. It afforded good views of spectators to watch the baseball and football games. When cleared it will, however, lend a more-clear view of the whole grounds.

The Home and some of school folks are enjoying maple sweets, a gift of Mr. D. A. Clapp, the father of a former pupil of the school, and who for a number of years past has made it a custom to give the treat.

Miss Edith Biggam returned to her work in the bindery this week, having enjoyed a four weeks' vacation with her home folks in Stark County.

Mrs. Lavinia Gilmore in renewing the subscription of the JOURNAL states that her eyesight, which was injured some time ago, is gradually improving and she is able to read some now. Her daughter is a trained nurse in a Philadelphia hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore will attend the reunion, if Providence permits. Mr. Samuel W. Corbett feels pretty fine these days, all because of a fine writing desk presented by his good wife and daughter as a birthday gift.

Rev. Whildin will give a reading at St. Elizabeth's Guild, Wheeling, W. Va., on the evening of April 17th.

The members of St. Elizabeth Guild and the Ladies' Aid Society of Bellaire are to have their pictures taken in two groups and then framed and a copy of each will be sent to the Home to be hung up in the Eastern Ohio room, thus showing the faces of those who have worked for it. Not a bad idea. It was suggested by Mr. Corbett.

The parents of Mrs. C. W. Charles, who have been with her for a couple of months, have returned to their home in Flint, Michigan.

HARTFORD.

The deaf of Connecticut are cheerfully responding to the call to contribute to the moving picture fund. Miss Mary E. Atkinson has been appointed State treasurer, and she has appointed solicitors in neighboring towns as follows: New Haven, Miss Hattie Lucas; Waterbury, H. R. Erbe; Bridgeport, Miss Jennie Wallen.

Miss Amelia A. Pease, who has been visiting at the home of her nephew out Albany Avenue, this city, has returned to her home, 36 Bodwell Street.

Miss Julia Salvino, who graduated from the Hartford School last June, as valedictorian, and whose home is in Waterbury has gone to Chicago to visit with an aunt, and expects to be gone several weeks.

On Thursday evening, March 27th, a number of Waterbury deaf got together and proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hine, where a little surprise was sprung on Mrs. Hine, it being her 68th birthday, and also, lacking one day, the 43d anniversary of her marriage. Each guest brought something good to eat or drink, and a few gifts also by way of kindly remembrance. The evening was spent in looking at photos, in conversation and in experimenting with a small electric battery which would give one pleasant little thrills, or grip one like a vise and make one bawl for mercy. After lunch, brief speeches were made by Mr. and Mrs. Erbe and by Mr. Hine. Mr. Hine said he first met Mrs. Hine in the school at Hartford. But as he was then one of the big boys and she a small girl he did not notice her much. Afterward he saw her and lost his head and heart and became quite demented, which condition on his part had lasted to the present hour. Among those present were Edward H. Hine and wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Erbe, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Holland, Misses Celle Norton and Emma H. Smith, Messrs. Michael Walsh and William O'Connell.

Mrs. Dougherty has broken up her home at 40 Hopkins St., storing the furniture and renting apartment. She will visit friends in West Hartford, and Guilford, Ct., for a while. Miss Mamie Oxley is with her.

Among recent visitors in Hartford were James Leghorn, of Milford, Ct., and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hine, of Waterbury. Mrs. Hine has two sisters, both of whom are teachers in the State Normal School, New Britain.

Miss Florence M. Gray has been very ill in the Hartford Hospital. She was operated on for appendicitis, Tuesday, March 23d, and had previously been ill for some weeks with malaria. Her many friends have been much concerned about her. She is recovering slowly, and will be removed to her home, 25 Barnard Street, Monday or Tuesday of the present week.

The winter session of the city night High and Manual School has closed. Among those who took courses either in full or part were Edgar Luther, Felix Bonvouloir, Eugene Oxley, Joseph Grady, of Waterbury, Ct., took a course at the Manual School on construction and use of the linotype.

The Springfield Quintet Basket Ball Team has been disbanded after a fairly successful season of it. Hagerty was taken ill and operated on for appendicitis, and last week Bonvouloir fell in a dark hallway and severely injured his foot, which will prevent his working for several weeks. We guess the boys thought they better disband before more calamities befell them.

There has been much illness here in Hartford during the past month, many having had the grip. Your correspondent has been flat on his back with it for several days, and is staggering into the sunlight once more, feeling as old as Methuselah. That young and sprightly man, Professor Weeks, dropped in to see us one afternoon and brought a basket of toothsome things to eat, some of which he made himself, and the rest he could have made if necessary. The grip is a very insidious and diabolical affliction, being full of ache, fever, weariness and melancholy, and leaves one debilitated and worthless. Job's boils, sudden poverty and a nagging wife were, no doubt, a terrible discipline of the good man's faith, but a knock-down attack of the grip is discipline enough for us. Spare us, good Lord!

Charles A. McKeever, of Memphis, Tenn., has bought a fruit farm about 103 miles west of Memphis, and will go into the fruit and poultry business in the foothills of the Ozarks.

ST. LOUIS.

J. H. May,—5851 Von Versen Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schlo and family have moved into a beautiful new home at 1311 South 6th Street, where they shall be pleased to have friends call on them. They are recent subscribers of the JOURNAL.

Three new candidates have applied for admission into the folds of the St. Francis De Sales Society. They are Messrs. S. Chenot and W. E. Cotter and Miss Annie Lane. The applications was made through Mr. W. Gibbons.

James Welker, of Marquand, Mo., after being here nearly two months, working in a shoe factory, departed for his parents' home last week. Dullness in the shoe trade caused his leaving the city.

Joseph Stippich, Jr., who owns a coal-yard and office and also several teams of horses, was offered a job to haul brick for a well-known business man. He declined to accept the job on account of the danger of being struck or killed in having to cross the various railroad tracks.

Mrs. Samuel Beck and child, who were taken ill on their arrival home from Flat River, Mo., are much improved in health. But Mrs. Beck is not yet strong enough to perform housework.

Henry Lohmann, who has been confined indoors for the last two weeks on account of a violent attack of ague, is well and at work.

Henry Lohmann, who has been confined indoors for the last two weeks on account of a violent attack of ague, is well and at work.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Youngberg, of Alton, Ill., write that they expect to come to this city in the near future and visit their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Sutton.

THE DOG DAYS ARE COMING.

Behold the dog-days are here! Monday, the 28th ult., the doors of the huge coliseum were thrown open for the fifth annual dog show that St. Louis has witnessed. The show lasted only four days. By the way, R. P. Sutton, who is a dog-fancier, will not take his fine dog to the show for lack of time. He has just secured a new collar for his three-months-old English setter dog. His license number is 18,978. Every dog has his day and so has every man. The dog is the only animal that still follows man. The average man cannot get along without a dog. Love me! love my dog!

At the Grand Central Hotel four deaf fellows are permanent guests. They are Messrs. Joel, Rose, Dolan and Matthews. Mr. Matthews is a new subscriber to the JOURNAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Berry have moved into better quarters at 3409 Caroline Street, just a few doors east of their last place of abode.

Easter Sunday services were performed at Zion Lutheran Church by Rev. Schubkegel on the afternoon of the 27th ult. The Lord's Supper was participated in by seven communicants.

On the afternoon of Easter Sunday the following deaf met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton, just for a social: Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Bretscher, and Messrs. N. Kieran and G. Rengier.

On the afternoon of Easter Sunday, there was a large gathering of deaf-mutes, at 901 N. Garrison Avenue, where a peanut party was given in the large meeting hall on the ground floor. Miss Josephine Dietrich won the best prize for guessing the correct number of peanuts in a jar. Her guess was 270.

Miss Pearl Conyers won a prize for the fastest time made in moving a certain quantity of peanuts from one chair to another chair. She moved them all on a knife in twelve seconds.

On the afternoon of Easter Sunday, a good crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stack, where a party was given, in order to raise funds for the benefit of the Silent Baseball Club.

Easter Sunday services were held in the forenoon of the 27th ult., at the Boffinger Memorial Chapel for the benefit of the local deaf.

On the afternoon of Easter Sunday, Oscar Block and his father's family got aboard an automobile to take a ride out into the country. They traveled a distance of sixty-three miles, starting at one o'clock, and got back home at 6:20 P.M.

Miss Maud Fore, of Bemis, Tenn., who came here three months ago, has been steadily employed at the clothing factory of Marx and Haas.

Miss Mina Haake is the latest deaf-mute, who has appeared on the surface, in St. Louis. For a number of years she has been an inmate of the Lutheran Home in South St. Louis. She was never educated. Never associated with any mutes till now. She can understand a few simple signs.

James Dunnabo, who used to live here several months during last year, is now working over in E. St. Louis, Ill., where he is employed as printer, on the sheets of the Illinois Elm.

ALTON NEWS.

St. Louis Republic: "Save my little baby in that burning shed, she is burning to death." This signal given in the sign language by Mrs. Mary McGuire, caused Chief of Police Maxwell almost to suffer cremation. Mrs. McGuire, a deaf-mute residing on Belle Street, saw her shed burning in the rear. Chief Maxwell coming along, saw the woman frantically making signs with her hands. Some neighbor caught the meaning of her signals and communicated to the Chief of Police the child's predicament. With his hair singed and his clothes afire, Chief Maxwell came out of the shed, after a search which availed nothing. After the shed was burned and the ashes had been scratched through in order to find the body the little tot, four years old, came toddling home from across the street. The baby was behind some buildings where it had been playing with other children.

Our thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blevins for their great kindness, in helping us scribe to obtain several new subscribers for the JOURNAL.

Through the kindness of Mr. Roy Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bennett, of Fairfield, Ill., sent several fine chickens and four dozen eggs to Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Blevins, of this city.

After a stay of two months, Mrs. Lippman (mother of Mrs. S. Panecake), departed for her home in Springfield, Mo.

Hurley Brenstetter, of Hannibal, Mo., is the latest arrival among the deaf in this city. He secured a job with the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company.

James Stack and wife, who formerly lived here, are now permanently located at a good farm, five miles from Houston, Texas. He has leased the farm for one or two years, and in case he becomes satisfied about the conditions of the soil and climate, he will purchase the same.

A pound party will be given at 901 N. Garrison Avenue, on Sunday afternoon, April 10th. Every one is welcome.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Monday evening, March 28th, a number of mutes gathered at the home of Rev. Schubkegel to tender him a surprise reception in honor of his fiftieth birthday anniversary. The affair was well arranged by the committee so that it turned out to be a genuine surprise to Rev. Schubkegel. A good purse containing money was donated to him for a gift. He acknowledged his appreciation. Refreshments were served and the party disbanded near midnight.

Providence, R. I.

Some time ago a goodly number of mutes of Providence and suburbs, captained by Mrs. Green and Miss Hackett, assembled and marched to Mr. Lorimer's house and surprised Mrs. Lorimer, who afterwards invited the merry company to sit down in the parlor room. Mr. Jackson came out and delivered to Mrs. Lorimer a package which turned out to be table-cloth and napkins and other things. She got up and thanked the company for their kindness to her. Games were enjoyed, and the company adjourned to the dining room where there was everything to eat without doing harm. Mr. Gifford, of New Bedford, felt very proud of being chosen to act as waiter on the ladies at the table. After the luncheon, they all departed for home.

Mrs. Lorimer was quite grieved to hear about the death of her cousin, Miss Helen Houell, which occurred lately at Newark, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Laing desire their fond sympathy and sorrow to be known to Mrs. Houell. Her brother, Asa, is still living in this city.

On April 2d, there was a large party of deaf-mutes assembled at Crescent Hall. The money collected was for the benefit of the Benevolent Society. There were some different parlor games, both laughable and exciting. Prizes were given to the winners. Every one was served with delicious ice cream and cakes. The committee who worked very hard to make it a success, deserve praise and thanks. They were Messrs. Fred. Egan and John Lorimer.

FANWOOD.

Last Wednesday, March 30th, the Easter vacation came to an end and the pupils returned to school.

Early in the morning they began flocking in, sometimes singly but more frequently in groups. At twelve o'clock nearly all of the pupils had arrived, excepting those who live in the suburban districts or outlying towns, who necessarily arrived later. After the usual formalities connected with the first day after vacation, the pupils were sent to classrooms or trades school, there was a great deal of handshaking and telling of news when friends met. Everyone presented a happy appearance, and seemed prepared for the final three months of the school term.

In the evening the pupils were lined up and marched to the chapel where everything was in readiness for the moving picture man. The pupils being seated, the gas from a pair of storage tanks was turned on and the moving picture man ran off the first reel. Most of the films were by the Pathe Freres and Esanay Film companies. The pictures were nearly all of a humorous turn, the "Mania Juggler" being among the best. Reel after reel was run off, and then the announcement "The New York Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, the only Military School in the world," was thrown on the screen. There was a rustle of expectation, and then the pictures were shown. The "Formation and Saluting the Colors" was first, and showed the pupils emerging from the Main Building and lining up in the boys' yard, where the ceremony of saluting the colors was gone through. Then followed "Passing in Review" which showed the pupils marching in two ranks across the lawn. This was followed by the "Manual of Arms," showing the pupils going through the different movements with the rifle. The last, but not least, was the "Butts' Rifle Drill," after which the reels were changed, the second reel showing Mr. Jones reciting "The Seven Ages of Man" and "The Preacher and His Monkey." Mr. Jones signs were easily understood, his ability in that direction being well known. The entertainment ended about ten o'clock, having lasted nearly two hours. Thanks are due Principal Currier for his kindness.

Last Saturday evening, the female members of the Advanced Classes presented the following program before the Fanwood Literary Association:

READING—"A Revelation to the Cook," by Miss Katie Christgau.
 JOKES—by Miss Delma Pearce.
 READING—"Tommy's Punishment," by Miss Millie Attig.
 READING—"A Brave Girl," by Miss Howe.
 FANCY—"The Family Album" by the class.

All the members did well, delivering their readings in expressive gestures, which were easily understood. After all the readings were gone through, the last piece on the programme, "The Family Album," was called for by Dr. Fox, who presided.

The "Album" was a representation of a large book, made of cardboard and cloth, and when the cover was turned back, the "pictures" were shown standing or sitting in a square cut out of the "second page." This caused a most realistic effect in the picture line. Upon the appearance of each "picture," Prof. Jones explained who they were and what they had done while living. The fables he told in that manner were very humorous. Following are the players and what they represented:

Miss Thomason.....Grandpa.
 Sarah McKeown.....Grandma.
 Kate Christgau.....Mother as a Girl.
 Delma Pearce.....Oldest Sister.
 H. H. Howe.....Father as a boy.
 Millie Attig.....City Cousin.
 Miss Judge.....Old Maid Aunt.
 Ethel Howe.....Papa in Old Age.
 Barbara Spierher.....Country Cousin.
 Kate Christgau.....Mother in her Widowhood.
 Miss Judge.....Bridal.
 Miss Craig and Delma Pearce.....Sister.
 S. McKeown.....Aunt and Uncle as Bride and Groom.
 Miss Thomason.....Confederate Soldier.
 S. McKeown.....Union Soldier.
 Alice Tracy.....Baby.

Upon the conclusion of the program, Dr. Fox asked that a complimentary vote be extended to the young ladies, and also a vote of thanks to Mr. Jones and the others who had helped to make the play a success. Both votes were unanimously given. After that Dr. Fox gave the events of the week, and nothing else being on hand a vote of adjournment was passed, and the members retired at eight forty-five.

Several of the teachers who live near here came to witness the programme.

Last Saturday afternoon a game of baseball was played on our grounds between the Fanwood Regulars and the Manhattan Athletic Association nine, the latter winning by a score of 10 to 7. This defeat was largely due to the careless fielding of our team, though our batting was excellent. Nimmo had a lame wing, so Knipe took his place and managed to do very well.

The writer did not witness the game, so is unable to give further accounts. Following are the positions, etc.:

Next Saturday evening, the battalion will journey to the 12th Regiment Armory, where they will give a review and parade, also various manoeuvres. On April 15th, they will go to the 22d Regiment Armory and repeat the performance.

Mrs. F. D. Clarke, wife of Dr. Clarke, Superintendent of the Michigan Institution for the Deaf, with her niece, were guests of Principal Currier. Mrs. Clarke, before her marriage, was a teacher at Fanwood.

Mr. George Lounsbury, son of Theodore I. Lounsbury, a graduate of this school, entered on the duties of tutor here last Friday evening.

Dr. Leale, Chairman of the Executive Committee of this Institution was a visitor last Sunday afternoon. He witnessed Mr. Best's service in the chapel, and after that the usual review and parade.

DENVER, COL.

On February 27th, the ladies on the Bible Class under the supervision of Mrs. R. Dixon, gave a chicken supper at the St. Mark's parish. It was in every way a big success and turned out to be a grand affair. About $21.00 was realized from the sale of tickets and $6.00 from auctioning off the remaining untouched edibles. The auctioneering was done by Mr. Kent. It caused so much excitement that many overbid the price of the stuff. For instance, some bid as high as twenty-five cents for only three apples. Mrs. Dixon will give a basket party at her residence on the 27th of this month in order to help swell the church fund.

Some forty deaf met at the rooms of the Denver Association for the Deaf on the 5th, at which time Dr. Argo gave a very interesting lecture treating on the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy with reference to forestry.

Mr. T. Y. Northern left for Rocky Ford recently. During his several weeks' stay in Denver he made a host of friends. He has been promised the first opportunity when the conditions of business will warrant any help in his line of occupation in this city. We expect to see him again in the course of a few weeks.

A couple of days after St. Patrick's Day, the Deaf association celebrated its sixth anniversary by giving a grand reception to the members and non-members. Its president, Mr. Lessley was a busy man.

On March 25th, the Bible Class had a basket party at Mrs. Dixon's residence and those who were participants appreciated it very much.

Next Saturday the Deaf Association is to hold a business meeting.

Mr. N. Riekey is going to affiliate himself with N. F. S. D. next week.

Mr. Ben Cunningham has started in the poultry business and purchased an incubator.

Mr. Barton will join Chicago Sox nine when it comes to play with the Denver team next week. He is a crack short stop.

Some pupils of Colorado Springs School for the Deaf were home for Easter holidays.

Mr. Jim Tuskey who used to work in a beet sugar factory, has gone to work in Brush, Colo.

Mr. Kent has purchased a couple of fine cows and expects to do dairy business in the future. His wife takes an interest in it.

Mr. Lessley and his wife have been planning to buy a suitable ranch and then live on it.

Mr. Reid's teaching at Bible class is very much appreciated by his class.

Miss Johnson, of Indiana, who came on a visit to her sister, says she is more than admired Colorado and expects to go home again after N. A. D. Convention.
